Family History Transcription Project

Thumbnails | Detail | 1 comment

We're hoping to make these genealogy documents more useful by getting accurate transcriptions. Can you help?

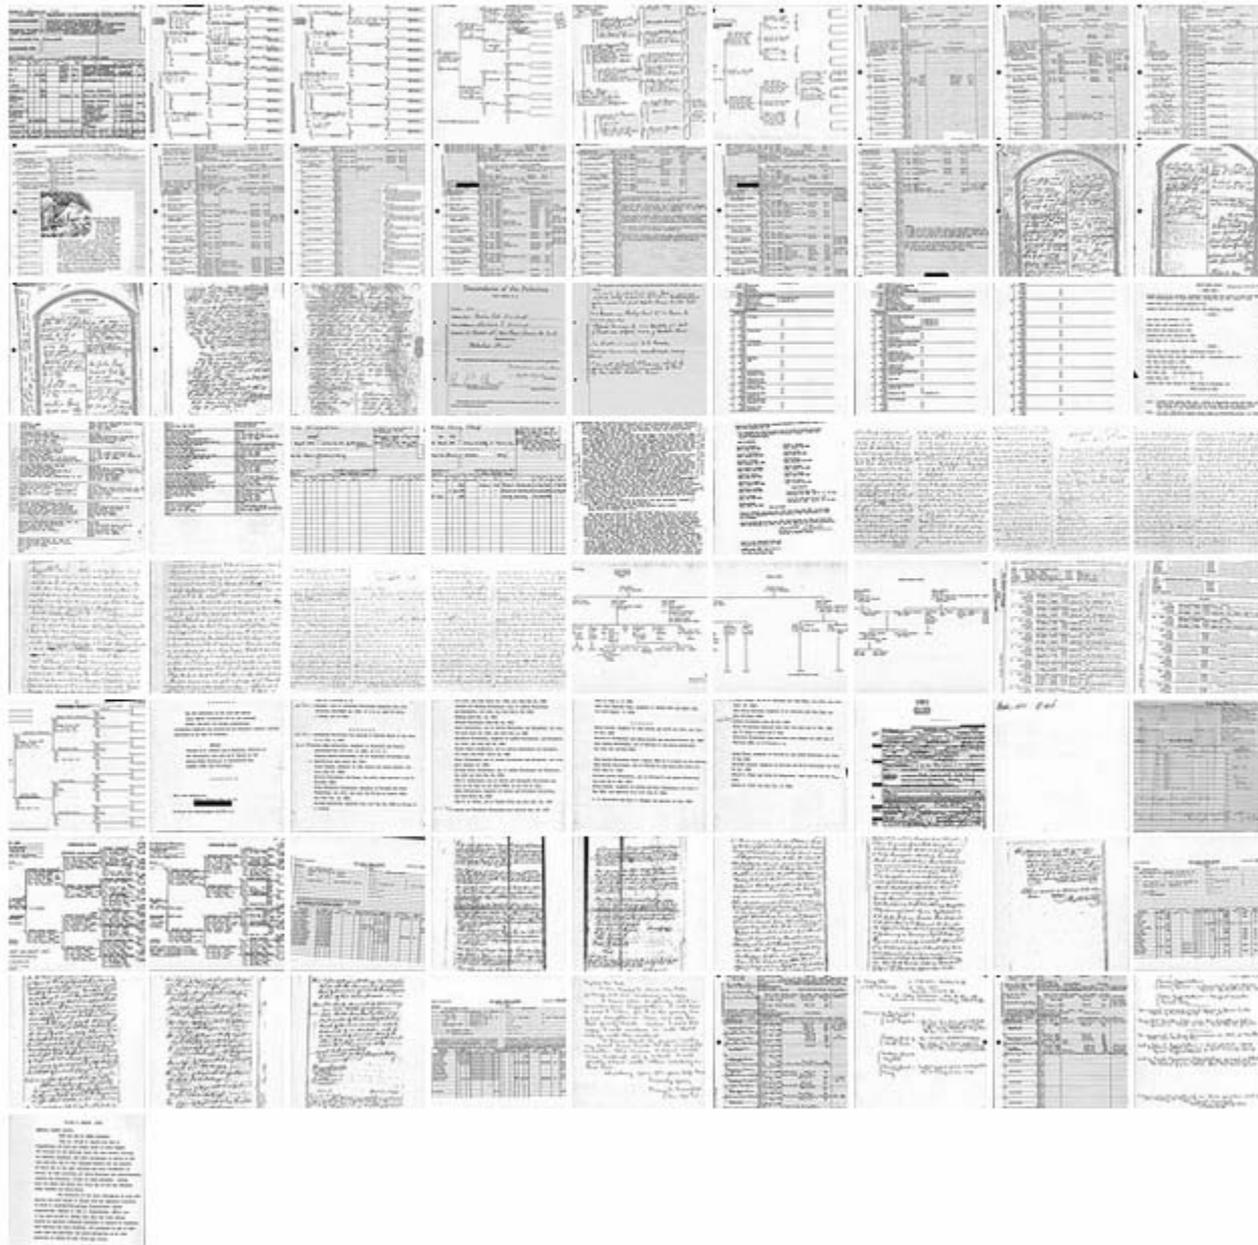

Just click on an image and follow the instructions in the description. Text too small? Send us an email and we'll upload a larger image: digital.info@ncdcr.gov

Want to know when we add more for transcription?
- Email us at digital.info@ncdcr.gov, with "Transcription volunteer" in the subject.

What's inside? Full text and images for digitized, copyrighted genealogy vertical file content found at the State Library.

Why? To help you search our vertical files a little more efficiently and completely.

Progress? A, B, S – COMPLETE! E – In progress

Search Files

What kinds of documents can be found here?

Examples include: family trees, family group sheets, newspaper clippings, photocopies of letters, vital records, and newsletters.

What is a vertical file?

Over the years researchers of all ages and all skill levels have contributed their genealogy information to our collection. Printed copies are kept in filing cabinets in our Genealogy reading room.

Are all of your vertical files in this database?

Not yet. We have scanned all content from the letters A and B, as well as selected content from C, F, M, U, V, W.

You can also search all of our genealogy collections, including vertical file content we believe to be OUT of copyright at North Carolina Family Records Online.

Why does the full text make no sense?

We run each image through a computer program that tries to recognize the text in the image for us. Older typewritten content, handwriting, and text on poor photocopies are often too hard for the program to decipher. To help us improve our database, click on the "Comments" box when you're looking at an image and add your transcription. You can also visit our Flickr page for more transcription opportunities. And thanks!
